Francisco for milder weather and fewer crowds. Prices are typically lower in winter, but it's a cold time of year, like summer. If you like to attend some of the city's popular events, the largest Chinese New Year celebration outside of Asia is held in February, the annual Northern California Cherry Blossom Festival takes place in April, and the San Francisco Pride Parade falls in June. You can drive the very scenic CA Highway 1 starting about 200 miles north of Los Angeles; the entire trip can take a full day with minimal stops. This memorable route includes tons of cliff views, the famous Morro Rock in Morro Bay, and the beautiful Big Sur. Another option is along U.S. Highway 101 from San Diego, which could save you a few hours, but usually still takes a full day in San Francisco, depending on the traffic and number of stops you make. You'll find plenty of ocean views, the chance to pass through Santa Barbara's wine region, and fascinating cities to explore like Solvang, with Danish restaurants and wineries galling. There are various ways to get to downtown San Francisco from the airport about 13 miles (21 kilometers) south of downtown San Francisco. Three or four BART trains ($8.50) per hour depart from SFO and take 30 minutes to downtown San Francisco. SamTrans ($2 and above) has frequent buses that connect SFO with parts of San Francisco, plus there are taxis ($47 and above), rideshare (prices vary), shared-ride vans ($17), and additional options, each of which usually takes 25 minutes or more. Prices vary, so it's best to check with the individual company before traveling. San Francisco is a beautiful hilltown with various neighborhoods full of personality. It is known for great international restaurants and shops, lovely beaches and parks and beyond. There world-famous sights to explore such as steep and sinuous Lombard Street, Golden Gate Park, the Haight-Ashbury district and its bohemian shops, the touristy Fisherman's Wharf, the beautiful beautiful Gate Bridge, and much more.
